Dear Secretary - General

Confidential Hazardous Incident Reporting Programme (CHIRP):
Perception, Decision Making and Fatigue at Sea information booklet
Annual Digest of Reports – 2017

I write to bring to your attention the work of CHIRP Maritime which is a charitable trust that offers a confidential reporting system for the maritime industry to submit reports of incidents and safety lessons learnt for them. Their work is very much in keeping with MSC-MEPC.7/Circ.7.

Each year CHIRP maritime publishes an annual digest which collates the reports received throughout the year and orders them under subject headings. This year, in addition to the annual digest CHIRP has also published a paper with the University College London on Perception, Decision Making and Fatigue at Sea.

I am pleased to enclose a copy of both publications for your perusal. They are also accessible electronically on the following links:

I would be grateful if you could bring the Annual Digest and the paper on Perception, Decision Making and Fatigue at Sea to the attention of other Member States.

Yours sincerely
